FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE: Jan. 28, 2021

The North Valley Community Foundation is announcing the launch of its 2021 scholarship application period.

Applications to the 11 programs managed by NVCF will be accepted through April 15.

The majority of the scholarships at NVCF are for graduating seniors who will be attending college in the fall, but there are some for current college students. Potential applicants can learn more about each program at www.nvcf.org/scholarships. Applications may be submitted directly through NVCF's website.

"NVCF has a long tradition of offering a variety of scholarships to our community," said Logan Todd, NVCF vice president for grant programs and client services. "We are proud to offer the option for our donors to invest directly in the next generation by creating scholarships to help young people pursue their passions."

Programs currently available include awards to help those who have a close family member with a breast cancer diagnosis, those pursuing a career in journalism and student athletes, among many others.

Scholarships currently open for applications include Bridging the Gap for Breast Cancer Scholarship Program, Butte County Sustainable Communities Scholarship, Cindy Kennedy Memorial Scholarship, Jerry Novotny Journalism Scholarship, Molly Sacksteder Memorial Scholarship, Mo-Train Spirit Award, The George and Alice Smith Scholarship, The Lydia Schulerud Scholarship, The Women's Improvement Club of Paradise Scholarship, Thomas Sprys Scholarship and Vietnam Veterans of America - Chapter 582.
