The North Valley Community Foundation released three more grants today to groups that are providing relief to individuals affected by the Camp Fire.

That brings the total to $2,183,965.30 in Camp Fire Relief Fund grants distributed so far. (This is separate from the Butte Strong Fund, which has also distributed millions in grants.)

The grants included the following:

The Outpost Restaurant and Bar ($25,000): The Butte Meadows business requested assistance to help offset the costs of providing housing and food to those affected by the Camp Fire for one year.

Feather River Center ($7,500): Requested assistance to provide a no-cost trip to the Forebay Aquatic Center for students at two schools affected by the Camp Fire.

Inspire Foundation ($25,000): Requested assistance to cover the costs of SAT and PSAT exams for 70 students, and the costs of AP exams for 100 students, as well as additional funds for other individual needs for affected students.
